ENG 1510 Writing & Rhetoric I

WP1: Exploring Familiar Discourse

To know what we need to learn, we first have to understand what we already know. WP1 is designed to help you demonstrate what you have learned from writing you've done in the past. You'll be asked to choose a specific context in which you've written and in which you understand the discourse well. Try to choose a context that you think your classmates won't know as well as you. Explain how writing is done and how other meaning is made in that context to your peers.

Learning Objectives

- To understand how writing and discourse are used in multiple contexts.
- To understand various aspects of discourse in those contexts.
- To make concrete claims and support those claims with evidence.
- To gather primary evidence from your own experience.
- To organize and present ideas effectively.
- To incorporate multiple modes into communication.

Length and Content Requirements

- First and final drafts must be a minimum of 1200 words or the multimodal equivalent.
- All projects must include at least one mode other than written text.

Due Dates

- First Drafts: September 19th.
- Final Drafts: October 3rd.

Submission

- Please submit your first and final drafts in Google Drive by placing your file in your shared folder with me.
- All documents should be named with your name, your class, and the assignment (e.g. "Malcolm Reynolds ENG 1510 WP1").
- Submit text documents as Google Docs (not Word docs or PDFs).
- Submit multimodal documents either by uploading files into your Google Drive folder or by placing links in a Google Doc.

Form

Choose a form that suits your content: for example, if you'll be focusing on visuals, use a visual format. Possible forms include: video, animation, podcast, Prezi, webpage, infographic, etc. If you choose a traditional paper, it still must include visuals, audio, and/or links to other media.

Please ask for help! I encourage you to try various forms, even if they're new to you. If you don't know how to make the content you want, ask!

Basics

The Basics are a demonstration of the basic understanding of the assignment. First drafts will be graded solely on your understanding of the basics.

- Choose a single context to explore writing and discourse. The context should be one that you already have a strong understanding of how to make and interpret meaning. Your context might be something like a part-time job, a place you've volunteered, a group affiliation (such as a sports team or religious group), a hobby (such as collecting or making things), an entertainment interest (such as a specific TV show, video game, or type of music), or a specific app or website (such as Snapchat, Instagram, or TikTok).
- Choose a space that you know well but that you think others won't already be familiar with. For example, the discourse of Facebook or the discourse of OU would be poor choices because most (if not all) of the class will already be familiar with the discourse of these spaces. Try to choose a space that you can teach others about.
- Explore how people in that context use writing and other discourse to make meaning. Pay special attention to language features (such as special vocabulary and grammar) but also visuals, symbols, gestures, sounds, and other ways that people make meaning in the context.
- Specifically consider what it takes to show you're an "insider" in the space through your use of language and discourse. What could someone say or do to let you know they know the context well?
- Use specific examples of writing or discourse. You don't have to explain everything, but instead try to find representative examples. Use (and explain) things such as screen captures, videos, audio recordings, quoted texts, and anecdotes to help you make your points.
- Direct your project to an interested but novice audience: someone who wants to know how to join the context you are describing but doesn't know how to yet.

Grading

The following criteria will be used to determine grades for the final draft:

Expectations	Exceeded	Met	Not Met
Focus	You stay focused entirely on your discourse context. You do not include information about unrelated topics or contexts.	You stay focused on your discourse context.	You get side-tracked. You include information about other contexts or include irrelevant information.

Grading (Continued)

Grauing (Co
Expectations	Exceeded	Met	Not Met
Claim	You make a clear and	You make a clear and	You do not make a direct claim about your	direct claim about your	claim about your discourse context. The	discourse context.	discourse context, or the claim helps to organize		claim is vague and/or your project.		hard to find.
Explanation	You explain what is	You explain what is	You do not fully explain
of Writing	important and unique	important about your	what is important about and Discourse	about the discourse	discourse context.	your discourse context.
	within your context.		It is unclear what
	This explanation is clear		features are critical to and concise.		learn.
Specific	You point to several	You point to some	You either point to no
Practices	specific discourse	specific discourse	specific discourse practices that are unique	practices and explain	practices or do not
	to your context and	them.	explain them.
	explain how they're unique.
Multimodal	At least two of the	At least one of the	All practices involve
Practices	specific practices you	specific practices you	only written or spoken mention include more	mention includes more	language.
	than written or spoken	than written or spoken
	language. You clearly	language.
	explain how others get meaning from these practices.
Specific	You use specific	You use examples of	You do not offer clear
Examples	examples of discourse in	discourse in use.	examples of how use that help your		discourse is used in readers better		practice.
	understand how specific practices are really used.
Audience	Your project is created	Your project is created	Your project is either for an interested but	for an interested but	too overly technical or novice audience. You	novice audience.	too general for the explain your ideas fully		audience.
	so that someone unfamiliar can still understand them.

Grading (Continued)

Graunig (C
Expectations	Exceeded	Met	Not Met
Introduction	You introduce your	You introduce your	You do not introduce readers to your context	readers to your context.	your readers to your in a clear and interesting		context fully. They may
	way.		not fully understand what the context is.
Organization	You have organized	You have organized	Your organization
	your project into	your project in a logical	interferes with segments in a logical	way.	understanding your way. Similar ideas are		points. Similar ideas are placed together. Ideas		separate or ideas are are placed in a way that		ordered in a way that makes them easier to		makes them hard to understand.		understand.
Multimodal	You use a form that	You both include and	You do not include
Elements	helps you express your	integrate multimodal	multimodal elements,
Ziciricires	points clearly. You have	elements well.	include irrelevant tried something beyond	Cicinomes Wein	elements, or do not a traditional paper, even		integrate the elements
	if the execution is not		that are included.
	perfect.		that are meraded.
Manuscript	You respond well to	You respond well to	You have not responded
Preparation Preparation	peers' comments and my	most of your peers' and	to your peers' comments ricparation	comments. You have	my comments. You have	or my comments fully.
		made some effort to	Only minimal effort is made a strong effort to		· · improve your writing	improve your writing	made to improve.
A 4 4 2 2 4 2 2 4 2	based on the comments.	based on the comments.	V
Attention to	You meet the basic	You are close to the	You are not close to the Assignment	requirements of the	basic requirements of	basic requirements of assignment, including	the assignment, but may	the assignment.
	1200-word-equivalent	have missed one or
	in content, sharing with	more pieces.
	me, and appropriate
	naming of documents.

Your grade for WP1 will be determined by how well you meet the above criteria.

- A You exceed the expectations for more than eight of the criteria. All others are met.
- B You exceed the expectations for two to seven of the criteria. All others are met.
- C You meet the expectations for all of the criteria.
- D You do not meet the expectations for one to three of the criteria. All others are met.
- F You do not meet the expectations for more than three of the criteria.