

ENGL 103

Rhetoric & Composition I

Northern Illinois
University

WP1: Narrative 2.0

Description

This project explores how genre and media impact writing. You will start by writing a short narrative in the form of an interesting anecdote: the kind of story you tell friends or family. It might be funny or inspirational, sad or uplifting.

Next, you'll adapt that narrative to a new medium, such as a video, a podcast, a website, a comic, or some other form of media. Try to choose a medium and genre appropriate to the kind of story you are telling, but in any case, be prepared to discuss your choices. After you're finished with your adaptation, you'll write a reflection explaining the choices you made when making it. In particular, you'll focus on what changes you made when adapting the narrative, what choices you made to make the new narrative appealing, and how the choices you've made will fit your audience. Please note: The reflection is 50% of your grade for WP1. It's important to do both pieces well.

Learning Outcomes

By the end of this writing project, you will be able to:

- Adapt material to meet the needs of a specific audience and rhetorical situation.
- Make rhetorical choices when using different media.
- Recognize established genres and work toward replicating them.
- Employ strategies for revising texts.
- Reflect on rhetorical choices made when adapting writing.

Requirements

Remediated Narrative

All drafts of the new narrative should include roughly the equivalent content to 800 words of text. Not all of the communication will be in words, however. It's likely that your narrative will include images, video, sounds, symbols, or other media. All projects must include at least one mode other than written text.

Reflection	Your reflection accounts for 50% of your grade on WP1. The reflection must be at least 800 words . Reflections can also be multimodal and include things like video, images, symbols, or sound.
Submission	Please submit your reflection and your project through Blackboard. If you have posted your project publicly, you can submit a link to it as your assignment. If not, you can share your project as a separate file. Please approve any alternative methods to submit your remediation project with me in advance.
Due Dates	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Completion drafts for the narrative are due on Monday, February 9</li> <li>• Completion drafts for the reflection are due on Wednesday, February 11</li> <li>• Revision drafts for both are due on Monday, February 23</li> </ul>

Completion Drafts	Completion drafts are graded on demonstrating a basic understanding of the requirements. Grades for completion drafts aren't an indication of how well you'll do on the revision draft. To get full credit for the completion draft, you must do the following:
Choose a genre and format	Choose a genre for your remediation project that fits the strategies you're explaining. The genre is not written text alone. The media in the narrative should be complete or near complete.
Adapt to your narrative	Adapt your narrative. The adaptation should include mostly the same content as your written narrative, but you have adapted it to fit the genre you've chosen and your audience.
Write a reflection	Like with the revision draft, the reflection accounts for 50% of your completion draft. Your reflection should explain your choices of genre and format for the remediation project as well as any choices you made to help your audience understand. The main goal is to explain why your narrative looks, sounds, and feels like it does.

Revision Drafts

Revision drafts are graded using the checklists below. If you do not check all the boxes in the C column, your project will get an F. In order to get grades in a certain column, all of the boxes in that column must be met.

Reflection Checklist:

C	B	A
	You have completed all of the requirements in the C column plus:	You have completed all of the requirements in the C and B columns plus:
✓ You have explained why you chose the genre for your remediation.	✓ Your reasons for choosing your new genre are clear.	✓ You have explained the reasons why you've chosen your new genre over other possible options.
	✓ You have provided at least one good example of other media in your chosen genre.	✓ You have explained why your good example is a model for your genre.
✓ You have explained who your chosen audience is.	✓ You have explained specific features of your chosen audience, including demographics and tastes.	✓ You have explained how you know specific features about your chosen audience.
✓ You have explained why you designed your remediation to match the genre.	✓ You have explained clearly how your design choices will appeal to your audience.	✓ You have pointed to and explained specific methods in your design that will appeal to your audience.
✓ You have explained what your goal was in making your remediation.	✓ You have explained steps you've taken to meet your goal.	✓ You have provided at least one example of how you've met your goals in your remediation.
✓ Your reflection includes what grade you think you have earned for the reflection and the narrative.	✓ You have responded to my feedback and your peers' feedback on your completion draft and revised accordingly.	✓ You have explained why you have chosen to take some advice but not other advice.
✓ You have uploaded your reflection to your portfolio.

Narrative Remediation Checklist:

C	B	A
	You have completed all of the requirements in the C column plus:	You have completed all of the requirements in the C and B columns plus:
✓ Your remediation is complete.	✓ Your remediation is complete and edited appropriately.	✓ Your remediation is posted in a suitable venue or you have explained where it would be posted in your reflection.
✓ You have adapted your narrative to a new genre.	✓ Your remediation has adapted the narrative to suit the formal conventions of the new genre.	✓ Your remediation resembles the form of the good examples from your reflection.
	✓ Your remediation has adapted the narrative to suit the stylistic conventions of the new genre.	✓ Your remediation resembles the style of the good examples from your reflection.
✓ You have at least one non-written mode in your narrative.	✓ You have used appropriate non-written media that suits your genre.	✓ You have used non-written media to enhance your narrative.
	✓ You have revised your remediation after the completion draft.	✓ You have responded to my feedback and your peers' feedback on your completion draft and revised accordingly.
✓ You have uploaded your project to your portfolio.		